ANNUAL PRICE LIST

STRAWBERRIES.

The past season has fully demonstrated that Kirkwood and Mt. Vernon are the same, and has also established the fact that Kirkwood is a very valuable variety where it does not require too long shipment to reach market. I know of no variety of recent introduction that has proved more satisfactory. Bidwell has not succeeded so well in Jersey soil. Marvin burns badly. Longfellow moderately productive, fruit fine. Glendale very satisfactory.

Manchester, I look upon as THE berry of '81. As seen at home in the very light soil of Manchester, it presented the best appearance of any berry I have ever seen under such treatment. Those who saw it under different circumstances, testify that it responds finely to good cultivation, showing a very much better average than Sharpless or Bidwell.

Dr. T. M. Hexamer, of Am. Garden, says: "I don't hesitate to say that the Manchester has more good qualities than any strawberry in cultivation. For shape, color, flavor, beauty, firmness and uniform large berries, as well as for productiveness and hardiness of plants, it has no equal."

Peter B. Mead, formerly editor of Horticulturist, says: "I have never seen a strawberry that in all respects impressed me so favorably. In this I think the strawberry has been discovered that has long been sought for. I shall recommend it everywhere."

C. W. Idell, commission merchant, N. Y., says: "From its large size, bright color, fine appearance and firmness, it invariably commands high prices. It keeps its color the best of any berry I have ever handled and stands up well."

RASPBERRIES.

The raspberry list is lengthening rapidly, and it would seem as though perfection should soon be attained. Queen of the Market or Cuthbert, in many respects seems "to fill the bill," and now we have "Superb" to close up the blank left by the Queen. For earliness and very large size combined, with its bright color, good flavor, great productiveness and entire hardiness render it very desirable. It ripened with me four days in advance of Turner, in same ground and three times the size, and will yield four times as many quarts per acre.

J. T. Swett, of Little Silver, N. J., says of it: "As I saw the Superb in the grounds of the originator at Burlington, N. J., it certainly seemed to be a remarkable raspberry. A good and vigorous growth with very robust canes and enormously prolific—the berries being extra large (many of them one inch in diameter) of good color, flavor and firmness, and withall, its ripening early renders it, in my opinion, should it prove of general adaptability, a variety of almost inestimable value. Later I saw it on lighter soil when it fully maintained its exceptional vigor."

W. Atkinson, of Farm Journal, says: "The largest raspberries I ever saw."

Wm. F. Bassett, noted horticulturist, Hammonton, N. J., says: "The most productive, very large early raspberry I ever saw."

Dr. Bowles, Hammonton: "I never saw anything like it."
